

Shareable Forms announces a new partnership with Conclusn

Bremen, GA – August 1, 2021: Shareable Forms, a company that specializes in converting Ambulatory Surgical Centers and other medical offices from paper charting methods to interactive electronic medical records, announced a partnership with Conclusn, a top-rated analytics company that helps medical practices rapidly make insight-driven business decisions. Having integrated the data collected from Shareable Forms EMRs to Conclusn’s medical record data platform, Shareable Forms now offers a cutting-edge clinical documentation and analytics solution.

“At Shareable Forms, our focus is providing a user-friendly clinical documentation tool that makes provider’s lives easier compared to charting a patient encounter on paper,” says Bobby Mehan, CEO of Shareable Forms. “In doing that, these practices immediately start collecting data about how they provide patient care, outcomes data, tools and supplies, and other practice methods. As easy as it is to implement our solution, it’s hard sometimes for practices to comprehend just how much data we collect for them and what can be done with it.”

“That’s where we come in,” says Michael Isaac, Conclusn CEO. “Conclusn helps practices generate insights from Shareable Forms and other data sources to improve outcomes, increase patient satisfaction, drive premium conversions and improve operational processes. Shareable Forms and Conclusn are natural partners, and we are excited to offer our business intelligence services to Shareable Forms customers.”

Shareable Forms and Conclusn share the same overall goal – making medical practices more efficient and intelligent – and now have the ability to share data to meet that goal. Conclusn will be able to retrieve data immediately from Shareable Forms databases and then process that data on a regular basis for Shareable Forms customers. “It’s a win-win-win,” says Mehan. “Shareable Forms and Conclusn win because we can expand our offerings to practices all over the country. And, our customers win by having flexible, interactive, and intelligent solutions to their charting and business intelligence needs.
